It is now proposed to consolidate the bills in the Legistture, one asking for $250,000 for a building to be erected in San Francisco for the colleges affiliated with the State University and the bill asking for $350,000 to be built in the same place for use of the Supreme Court, State officers and Commissions. It is thought that a bill of this kind would meet the views of Governor Budd. The amount to be asked for both buildings is $350,000.

George W. McBride has been elected U. S. Senator from Oregon to sccceed J. N. Dolph. When the latter gentleman found he could not be elected he caused his friends to vote for the successful candidate and when sufficient votes had been cast to elect McBride all of the rest fell in and made it unanimous.

Liliuokalani, ex-Queen of the Hawaiian Islands, has been found guilty of treason, notwithstanding the able defense made in her behalf by Paul Neuman. What her sentence will be is only a matter of conjecture as yet.

The Santa Fe Railroad has made a cut in rates of second class passengers from Los Angeles and the southern parts of the State to Chicago and it is probable that a war rate has been commenced again.

Stamboul, the noted stallion trotter, is dead. His best time is recorded as 2.07 1-2, made in Stockton, California, November 22, 1892.

Manufacturing Wants a Push.

That there has been a great falling off of manufactures on the Pacific Coast during the past few years is patent to any observer. It has become so noticeable of late that some action on the part of those directly interested has become necessary. In order to bring the matter before the public a call has been issued for a convention to be held to take into consideration what will have to be done to revive business in that line.

There appears to be a good feeling towards the movement among the manufacturers. They will take hold and see if something cannot be done to give the foundries, woolen mills and all other branches of manufacturing employment. Competition in the East has probably had some effect for there wages are much lower than here. During the times of depression which has so long existed men are willing to work for anything they can get. Stringency in the money market has caused a falling off in the demand. Like a row of bricks, when one is started they all go down.

In order to give the factories a chance to compete with those on the other side of the Rocky Mountains expenses of all kinds must be cut down and the margin of profit will have to be less than in days gone by.

One great thing is also needed, but perhaps the hardest to obtain, that is the idea of getting people to give a preference to home manufacturers. Without much trouble this can be accomplished when the cost is the same. The moment the home article rises above, in value, that of the imported one, the consumer takes advantage of it to the former's disadvantage.

There seems to be a decided feeling against working for any lower wages than has been paid for the past five years. Just as soon as any reduction is made then labor comes in and makes a remonstrance. The combining of labor interests has given it a large power in the present day and it will be ill-advised if it does not allow itself to conform to the times. Naturally it says that capital wants all the profit. If it can not make it by the going price of goods then whatever cut is made so that the same profit remains comes from the reduction in the price of labor.

The Convention that is to be assembled should endeavor to have a good understanding with the labor elements so that the combination could work harmoniously together and with the forces joined competition from anywhere could be successfully met.

There is no place in the world that has the natural advantages for labor which California has. At least eight months in the year outdoor work can be carried on without hindrance. The climate is a mild one and the earth produces very easily everything that is necessary to sustain life and a great many things which elsewhere would be called luxuries.

Let public sentiment do all it can to help promote the efforts of the Convention so that the engines may run, the water wheels turn and the busy noise of looms be once more heard in the land as in the days gone by.

The Shoemaker.

This, children, is the shoemaker. I warrant me you have seen him sitting on his bench; but the promises he makes there have not the force of a bench warrant.

Go to him to heel your shoe, and he'll disappoint you.

He says "there's nothing like leather," and yet he knows that the paper board he puts into your shoes looks exactly like leather.

Therefore, you should not trust the shoemaker—unless he will trust you.

The shoemaker is sometimes called a cord wainer. Accord wanes between you and him after a short acquaintance.

St. Crispin is the shoemaker's patron saint. A man must be a saint to be the patron of the shoemaker.

Crispin was a martyr. He probably had corns. That must have been the martyr with him. If he had a corn it was because his shoe was a grain tight.

He was a Roman, and all shoemakers like their customers to be roamin' as much as possible.

He fled to Gaul in the third century. That is the reason all shoemakers have so much gall.

It is said that he stole leather to make shoes for the poor. His followers still make poor shoes, but I never heard of their stealing leather.

The shoemaker's shop is more dangerous, by the way, than the dramshop. You are always sure of a tight fit at the shoemaker's.

There are some good things to say of the shoemaker. If you will repair to his shop, he will repair your understanding. Therefore you stand under obligations to him.

He repairs your boots when they are worn, and when they are entirely gone, he repairs your feet.

This repairing those feet of yours is one of the features you had not thought of, I suspect.

Then the shoemaker puts you on your taps, when your sole is about ready to leave you; when you are down at the heel he straightens you up, and when you have nothing to stand upon he puts you on a new footing.

The shoemaker works with a stirrup. With it he can stir up the lazy apprentice.

The shoemaker also uses wax ends. A whack sends the apprentice to work when he is idle. Idle like to be an apprentice? Guess not.

The shoemaker is a disinterested fellow. He labors for the sole benefit of mankind.

The shoemaker has a great many tools, and he has to use awl when he sews. So's this true when he pegs.

The shoemaker is always pegging away. He continues to drive pegs in till he pegs out.

There have been many celebrated shoemakers. They rose high in public life, although they began at the foot.

In some countries the wooden shoe is worn by the peasantry. Wooden shoe think they would be clumsy?

Boots are made rights and lefts. It is right to put one on the left foot, and it is left to put the other on the right foot.

But you have had enough of the shoemaker. Let us not feel above him, though we often feel above his work.

May he live long and when he has passed the last lap of his earthly race may a lap stone be erected to his memory.

"The bees are swarming, and there's no end to them," said farmer Jones, coming into the house. His little boy George came in a second afterwards and said there was an end to one of 'em anyhow, and it was red hot, too.

ARE WE SILURIANS?

The new charter is a progressive measure and tomorrow will decide whether the voters of Berekley conclude to take a step forward or not To defeat this measure means years of retrograding. It does not seem possible with all the knowledge and cultivation within its limits that such a thing could happen. Berkeley has grown very fast in the last decade, faster than almost any town on the Pacific Coast. We mean by growth the increase of the number of inhabitants. In other ways it has not kept up with the times. To be sure it has kept along quite well with the means it has had at its disposal. The boy has outgrown his knickerbockers and now wants a full suit. With a great struggle the public schools have managed to keep in existence, but rather a precarious one. Our streets have here and there been improved to some extent from the particular pockets of the property owners. Lights for the late traveler have been procured and the expense of keeping it up causes the public to groan, on account of the amount of money it takes out of the scanty supply. Yet it is considered a public necessity and must be maintained. Money for keeping what streets there has been macadamized in fair condition is lacking, although the water used for such purposes has been furnished at so low a rate that the Board of Trustees have agreed to raise it fifty per cent.

There are various other improvements sadly needed that cannot be made on account of the want of money for this purpose. It is time that the town should be looking out for places to be used as public parks, which go far to make a city attractive. Land can never be obtained cheaper than at the present time for public breathing places that all cities must have.

We could go on and enumerate a great many things that a city growing like this University town should have and could be had if only a small amount of means was available for the purpose.

The new charter will enable the Trustees to carry out a great many improvements and then not reach the limit of taxation which is called for.

Copies of the new style of government printed by both of the daily papers, have been circulated so that no voter in town can say that he has not seen the document if he had any desire to do so. If he had that desire and has not read it thoroughly it is his own fault and he cannot go to the polls on the morrow and exclaim, "I do not know what I am voting for or against."

The charter is a plain, straight-forward document, prepared by men fully capable of doing and doing it in an honest manner. We have got along with the old charter which years ago answered the purpose but of late does not meet our requirements. Self-interest may cause some to oppose it and self-interest should cause others to vote for it. It will be a great benefit to a large majority of Berkeleyans in more ways than one.

From what we can learn in conversation with many of our people the more it is discussed the more it comes into popular favor. One thing is quite sure if the charter is not carried there will be something to be regretted for many a year. The day laborer will probably reap more direct benefit from the new system than anyone else as it will be the means of giving many constant employment and a large number will have some work and this he knows is not the case under the present system. The merchant will be benefitted as whatever is an assistance to labor increases his custom.

Naturally from this foundation all classes of people will be helped and the town of Berkeley will march forward in the line or improvement and will make itself more beautiful than ever.

VOTE for the charter before you go out of town. Delays are dangerous. Let the majority be made emphatic.

THE government weather forecaster does not give Berkeley much consideration. When the new charter is adopted things may be different.

BERKELEY continues to want the terminus of the San Francisco and San Joaquin Valley Railroad located within her town limits. Just wait until next Tuesday's job is finished and then see what she will do. A patient waiter is no loser.

PUTTING off public matters until the last moment may come very near costing the town of Berkeley ten years of good healthy growth. The plan is a bad one, and no good, practical business man has ever yet been found to make a success of it. The chances are all against and none in favor. How unfortunate it would have been if the charter had been still-born, only its hard working friends can realize.

A REPORT of the Grand Jury has been made public, and the people have concluded that this body has looked into the affairs of the county closely, and have not been afraid to speak their minds freely upon short comings, wherever found. It handles some of Berkeley's officers without gloves. Grand Juries, as is well-known, very seldom hear but one side of a case. The old saying, "that one story is good until another is told," probably holds its own at this time. Until the public get the other side it is well enough to suspend judgment. When all the testimony is in a decision can be given.

The Indian Medicine Company will give an entertainment in Pythian Hall on Wednesday evening next. There will be Irish, Dutch and negro character acting by the company's selected comedians. Deer Foot, the genuine Indian Medicine man, will be on hand and give consultations free. His remedies are roots, herbs, barks and berries and are in reach of the poor.

There was only one person that could find fault with the weather in Berkeley yesterday, and he is the person that prophesied that it was going to rain.

The Official Numberer.

It is said that some persons are going about Berkeley and offering to place numbers on houses for the benefit of letter carriers and receivers of mail under the free delivery system. The only authorized man to perform this work is Mr. Rod Cameron, whose office is near the post-office. When not there he can be found at George H. Stricker's cigar store, corner of Center street and Shattuck avenue. It is against the law for any one to do this work except Mr. Cameron.

Notwithstanding the rain on Saturday which wet the ground pretty thorougly there were many visitors in Berkeley from the city. They were anxious for an outing and climbed the hills back of town. But few wild flowers are in bloom at present, yet there are some and were found by the many wanderers. Grizzly Peak attracts those who do not mind a little uphill work.

Tomorrow being an election day in Berkeley all places where liquor is sold must be closed up. The Protective Association are going to take a hand in the matter this year and will endeavor to see that the strict letter of the law is obeyed. Somebody had better keep a sharp lookout or something will be heard to drop.

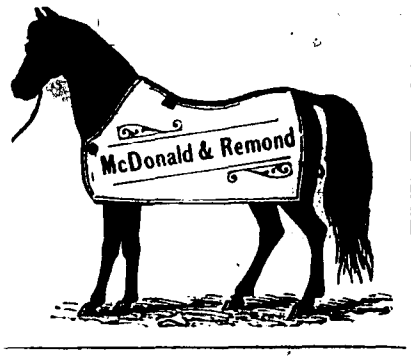
At Fraser's grocery store in North Berkeley, can be seen a watermelon that was brought from Fresno over six months ago. To all appearances it is as fresh as the day it was taken into the store. There does not appear to be any loss of weight either.

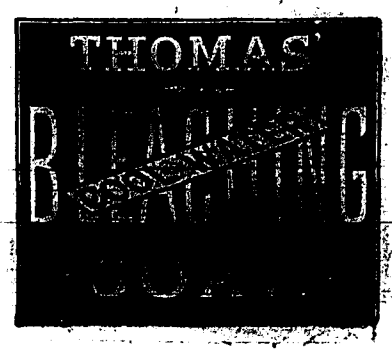
The Board of Trustees meet to night and the Committee of the Whole will report upon the water question, which was so thoroughly discussed on Saturday evening. Probably other matters wtll come before the Board as usual.

The Electric Shampoo advertisement got crowded out today. It will appear tomorrow. Secure a GAZETTE and read it.

Colonel Harry I. Thornton of San Francisco is lying in a very critical condition in Fresno. He has pneumonia.

During the coming week very lively times are looked for in the Legislature at Sacramento. It is to be hoped that the record of every member will be had upon all bills passed. The people want to know what their servants are doing when away from home.





Great Excitement on WEDNESDAY NIGHT IN PYTHIAN HALL.
